Living Sexually & Spiritually in Today's World

A retreat for gay resigned priests and religious

Description

This retreat will explore contemporary themes in spirituality, with an emphasis on the meaning of sexuality in becoming a whole person. Using the theology of Vatican II, each participant will examine his own personal journey to become a sexually and spiritually mature person through examining such concepts as conscience, integration, justice, community, hope, ministry, and renewal. Using insights from Thomas Merton and other contemporary spiritual authors, the focus will be on practical applications to real-life situations in day-to-day life as sexual and spiritual beings. These reflections will be geared toward helping each individual understand his mission in the modern world.
